

- ✓ Quants - 100+ Qns & Ans
- ✓ Logical - 100+ Qns & Ans
- ✓ Verbal - 100+ Qns & Ans
- ✓ Automata - 50+ Qns & Ans
- ✓ Essay- 25+ Qns & Ans
- ✓ TR Interview - 300+ Qns & Ans
- ✓ HR Interview - 300+ Qns & Ans

Essay Writing

Introduction

An essay is essentially divided into three parts. The first one is an introduction, which gives a brief idea about what that essay is going to be.

The principal purpose of the introduction is to present your on the issue at hand but effective introductory paragraphs are so much more than that. Before you even get to this thesis statement, for example, the essay should begin with a "hook" that grabs the reader's attention and makes them want to read on. Only then, with the reader's attention "hooked," should you move on to the thesis. The thesis should be a clear, one-sentence explanation of your position that leaves no doubt in the reader's mind about which side you are on from the beginning of your essay.

The Body

The middle paragraphs of the essay are collectively known as the body paragraphs. For the first body paragraph, you should use your strongest argument or most significant example unless some other more obvious beginning point is required. The first sentence of this paragraph should be the topic sentence of the paragraph that directly relates to the examples listed in the mini-outline of the introductory paragraph.

There is no right or wrong while writing an essay. All you're providing them is your opinion. Clarity is the only point which needs to be stressed in this context.

The Conclusion

Although the conclusion paragraph comes at the end of your essay it should not be seen as an afterthought. As the final paragraph is represented your last chance to make your case and, as such, should follow an extremely rigid format. Effective conclusions open with a concluding transition and an allusion to the hook used in the introductory paragraph.

While writing an essay, make sure it has a logical flow and also the structure of the sentences in right. Long sentences are advised to be avoided to decrease the complexity. Use connective conjunctions between paragraphs to display the flow better. If a question is raised in the introduction, make sure you acknowledge it in the body.

Tips to follow:

Spelling and Punctuation are important while writing the essay.

Be lucid and to the point.

Expand your vocabulary. Articulation is one aspect possessed by a good piece of writing.

Create interest while writing the essay. The Reader should follow the flow until the essay ends.

Avoid non-sense. This can be achieved by sticking to your point and omitting what you feel is unnecessary.

Practice Topics:

1. Do you prefer to be just a member of a group or the leader of a group pollution in the community and what would you do to control it Practical knowledge is better than bookish knowledge
2. Present situation of Agriculture in India compare to ancient days
3. Unity in Diversity –Often Discussed, Rarely Practiced
4. What are the way the IT people to help an uneducated Public
5. “How important is it to have a personal-professional balance in life to be happy? What do you do to achieve that?”
6. Do we need watch dogs in our society?
7. Is India still a secular state?
8. Should Euthanasia be accepted or be kept banned.
9. Climate Change
10. Do we need smart cities or smart laws?
11. Climate Change
12. “How important is it to have a personal-professional balance in life to be happy? What do you do to achieve that?”
13. Do we need watch dogs in our society?
14. Most memorable day of your life.
15. Mention 3 things you regret in your life.
16. Describe your personality?
17. Is India still a secular state?

18. Match Fixing -Cricketers to blame?
19. Do we need smart cities or smart laws?
20. Women empowerment
21. Is there increase in intolerance in India
22. Roll on Gandhism
23. Vision -India 2020 -will India become a superpower?
24. Will swacch bharat campaign succeed?
25. Terrorism
26. Indian Education Vs Foreign Education
27. How can IT help the uneducated people in our society?
28. Current agricultural scenario in India as compared to the ancient days
29. Should mobile phones be banned during work hours?
30. Should alcohol be banned in India?
31. GST Bill
32. Child Labor
33. Dowry
34. Era of letter writing
35. Jallikattu -should the ban continue?
36. Effects of mobile phones on teens
37. Digital India
38. How will you be an asset to Wipro
39. If you weren't in this field which field would you have chosen and why?
40. 3 things you would change about the world
41. Technology has made humans slaves
42. Global warming and its threats
43. Partiality between rich and poor
44. Your role model
45. Your favorite sports icon
46. Has technology become a new addiction? Have we become slaves to our new creation?
Write a response that expresses your thoughts. To what extent do you agree or disagree
Explain your reasoning.

47. The tight curriculum of our current education system leaves no room for imagination and creativity. Write a response that expresses your thoughts. To what extent do you agree or disagree? Explain your reasoning.

48. Our society is disrupted by the ever-widening gap between rich and poor. One percent of the world's population controls half of all global wealth. While a quarter of world's population struggles to feed themselves daily. Write a response describing the causes and consequences of the situation. What remedies might be effective?

49. Nature provides us with much. But when we abuse nature, we risk disaster. Write a response explaining how we harm ourselves and how we harm the environment.

50. He who has never learned to obey cannot be a Good leader. Write a response that describes the traits of a good leader. To what extent do you agree with the statement? Explore arguments both for and against the statement in your response

51. The true definition of life is to have a healthy work-life balance. Happiness in either work or home is short lived. It is not balanced by happiness in the other. Write a response examining the needs of personal and professional life. How do achieve a proper balance? How can you make success everlasting?

Example:

True beauty is found not in the exceptional but in the commonplace.

Beauty, by definition, is that which moves us or impacts us significantly. Some would argue that beauty is found everywhere, from the flowers to the stars. But others would state that true beauty is found only in rare, special instances. After weighing the evidence, it is certain that beauty is the province of the exceptional, not the commonplace. People are moved most by things that they rarely experience, not the things they experience every day.

Those who would argue that true beauty is everywhere might point to the beauty of a flower, or the starlit night. These experiences are certainly common, but do they show that true beauty is commonplace? Flowers might be considered beautiful, but how often does a person stop to look at or appreciate every flower? Flowers are so common that in many cases, they are ignored or viewed as nothing special. However, on those rare occasions, one might say when we want to commemorate an event or express emotion, we notice the beauty of flowers. Thus, it is not the commonplace flower that strikes us as beautiful, but the exceptional situations themselves that move us to appreciate the flower.

Now consider the exceptional. Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa is surely one of the most exceptional, and beautiful, paintings ever created. Few people who view the painting are not moved by the sheer beauty of it, and the Mona Lisa is instantly recognized as a masterpiece of art. And yet, there have been literally millions of paintings produced in human history. Is every single one of them beautiful? Does every one of those paintings have the impact that da

Vincis does? Of course not. In order to find beauty, we must separate the exceptional cases from the common ones. True beauty is such because it stands out from the masses of the average and pedestrian.

In conclusion, its clear that true beauty is found not in the commonplace, but in the exceptional. The Mona Lisa and Notre Dame Cathedral are both exceptional examples of fairly commonplace things and it is these exceptions that are noted as truly beautiful. If anything, the commonplace serves only as a contrast so that we can understand what true beauty really is."

Primum

A complete study material for Wipro Aspirant

Let's do it

@primum